Special Gift of David ’45 and Yoriko McClure
David McClure graduated from Bangor High School in 1945; however, David attended Foxcroft Academy during most of his four years of high school. As a way of saying thank you for the education he received while at Foxcroft Academy, David and his wife Yoriko have established a charitable remainder unitrust to benefit both the Academy’s Horton Scholarship Fund as well as those Foxcroft Academy students who choose to further their education at the University of Maine.

Legacy Circle
Academy students who choose to support the endowment. One such group of donors are those helping to endow the Horizon Scholarship Fund, which supports scholarships for students while they are attending the Academy.

Donors who have helped endow the Horizon Scholarship Fund are:
- Bennie Bush has established three named funds:
  - Michael ’89, Ruth ’89, Steward Bush Fund
  - Teresa A. Bush Funds
  - Muriel Pilipot Watson ’25, the Louis Pilipot Fund
- Peter and Marion Plouff Fund
- David and Yoriko McClure
- Anonymous donors to establish the Bush Scholarship Fund
- Glanci White Snyder ’32, the Richard Snyder Fund

Many other donors have given memorial gifts to support these funds. Together these gifts total over $90,000 in endowed Horizon Scholarship Funds. Our goal is to endow the Horton Scholarship Fund at a level of $250,000.

Students Ring the Academic Achievement Bell

A host of Foxcroft Academy students have received regional, state, and national recognition for their academic achievements.

Three National Merit Finalists

This year three Foxcroft Academy students were named National Merit Finalists, entering a select group of the top 1% of high school students nationally. Only 32 students among Maine’s 134 secondary schools were named to this elite group. Foxcroft Academy is one of only two schools in Maine that is able to claim three National Merit Finalists: Diana Swett, Matthew Ruby, and Jessica Smith.

The students’ achievement was based on their performances on the PSAT and SAT College Board exams, their academic achievements at Foxcroft, as well as essays and recommendations that had been submitted.

Diana Swett will be attending Yale in the fall of 2001, while Matt Ruby and Jessica Smith have yet to make their final decision as to where they will be attending, but the offers are in hand.

Ben Turner and Mike Doore, both seniors at Foxcroft Academy, were also named as National Merit Commended Scholars.

Eight Named to All Academic Team

In combining athletic prowess and academic achievement, Foxcroft Academy walked away with top honors in the state, as the Maine Principals’ Association named all eight senior girls of this year’s girls’ varsity basketball team to the First Team All Academic. The girls’ basketball team had a successful season on the court and became the first Academy girls’ basketball team to be Eastern Maine runner-up champion. While the girls lost in the Eastern Maine finals, their season of achievement both on the court and in the classroom has found them a permanent place in the history of Foxcroft Academy.
Donors to Academy’s $2.25 Million Capital Campaign

Gifts and pledges received between July 1, 1998, and April 4, 2001, for Foxcroft Academy’s capital campaign, Securing the Tradition, total more than $2.3 million. The Foxcroft Academy Board of Trustees, faculty and staff wish to extend their sincere thanks and deepest gratitude to the donors listed below who have demonstrated exceptional generosity to enhance the educational programs and facilities at Foxcroft Academy through their capital campaign gifts. Gifts received after April 4, 2001, will be published in our fall edition of the Foxcroft, along with donors to our Annual Giving Campaign.

Foxcroft Academy is preparing to begin construction this summer on a renovated and expanded cafeteria that will also include the Pride Manufacturing Student Center and Plouff Meeting Room. These projects are the final projects being funded by the $2.25 million capital campaign, Securing the Tradition.

The addition of the Pride Manufacturing Student Center and Plouff Meeting Room being built adjacent to the cafeteria and inside the existing walls, will also serve as an adjunct cafeteria area during the noon hour.

The original cafeteria built in 1952 for a student body of 250 is no longer adequate for the over 450 students who attend Foxcroft Academy. The student center will also meet the needs of students during the day as a study area and serve as a meeting area for student organizations and clubs. In preparation of the displacement of our Latin and French classrooms by the expansion of the cafeteria, construction is nearly complete on two new foreign language classrooms where the old home economics room was located. Home economics found a new home as the Ames Consumer and Family Science Lab where the old art room, Roland Zwicker’s apartment, was located. These renovations to classrooms have been funded by the capital campaign.

The campaign has also funded the replacement of all the windows in the main academic building, a new roof, the construction of the Ebersteen Art Center and the Philpot Multimedia Center. Last summer the campaign also provided funds for the construction of a 400 meter 8-lane competition track facility, replacing the original cider track built in 1947, which had not been usable for home meets since 1993. With a larger student body and almost 60% of them wanting to participate on an athletic team, the school also added three playing fields including a competition soccer field.

For the first time in Foxcroft Academy history, we will play host to the Eastern Maine Final Track Meet, bringing teams from over 20 schools in the state to Foxcroft Academy. As we go to press, three feet of snow remains on the track. We will have pictures of the track dedication, taking place later this spring, as well as events from the first meet, in our fall edition of the Foxcroft.

The first home football game in the new stadium will be played on Friday night, August 31, 2001, at 7:00 P.M.. Former Foxcroft Academy football players are extended a special welcome to the opening game, as well as all alumni and community members. You may purchase your ticket early by calling the Alumni Office at 207-564-8664.
One of the most common misconceptions heard among alumni and friends of Foxcroft Academy goes something like this, “Foxcroft Academy really doesn’t need my charitable support, because it has those large endowment funds that have been there for decades.” As we begin to enter our third century of service to students, the truth about our endowment funds deserves clarification.

It is true that Foxcroft Academy has remained a strong and vibrant independent school for 177 years in large measure due to the charitable giving of its alumni and friends. Of critical importance to the school’s history of educational achievement has been the charitable gifts to the endowment fund by such contributors as J.B. Mayo, George Meder, E.J. Mayo, and Myrtice and Louis Oakes, as well as other alumni and friends of the Academy.

The annual income generated from the endowment funds has always played an important role because tuition revenues alone do not cover the cost of an FA education. In addition, the Academy’s Trustees, not the state, are responsible for all construction and upkeep of the school’s buildings and income from the endowment funds has certainly helped fulfill this responsibility over the years.

However, here are two other things that are true about Foxcroft Academy’s endowment which may surprise you. First, not all of the funds left to Foxcroft Academy’s endowment fund actually benefit Foxcroft Academy or its students while they attend Foxcroft Academy.

Second, the remaining portion of Foxcroft Academy’s endowment, or about $3.2 million, does benefit the school directly but has not kept pace with the growth and expansion of the school. Since 1952 when the main academic building was erected, Foxcroft Academy’s campus has grown by 70%, including a gymnasium (1961), industrial arts building (1976), music and classroom wing (1989), Burton M. Packard Center for Forestry Management (1996), Mildred Hall Ebersteen Art Center (1999), new track and athletic fields (2000), and the Pride Manufacturing Student Center (2001). In addition, since the 1960’s we have increased our academic offerings from 54 to over 120 course offerings, including 8 Advanced Placement Courses and four foreign languages.

These general purpose and unrestricted endowment funds produce annual income of about $150,000 a year. This annual income directly benefits the Academy’s programs, facilities, and students. However, the endowment is simply too small to adequately care for the needs of a school that has experienced our growth. Other independent schools that are about our size and offer an educational program similar to ours typically have endowments in the range of $8-$12 million, and some much larger.

To protect the future of the Academy, the quality of educational offerings, and the condition of the school’s facilities, the Trustees of Foxcroft Academy voted unanimously on January 22, 2001, to launch an awareness campaign to help educate alumni and friends concerning the school’s need to increase the size of its endowment. During the next year we will be providing more information to you concerning this very critical need, how a few alumni have begun to help, and how you may be able to help as well. In the meantime, if you have questions or comments please e-mail Jay Brennan, Associate Headmaster for Development at: jbrennan@foxcroft.pvt.k12.me.us or call at 207-564-8664.
The Intent with which wework.

Intent  adj: 2: Having the mind and will concentrated, <~ Purposeful, mind-set>

The instruction in each of the 120 courses at Foxcroft Academy is focused on developing each student's performance towards specific learning standards. The standards in each of the seven core academic areas reflect the Academic Mission of the school (center plaque).

Commonality of Intent

The instruction in each of the 120 courses at Foxcroft Academy is focused on developing each student's performance towards specific learning standards. The standards in each of the seven core academic areas reflect the Academic Mission of the school (center plaque).

Consistency of Intent

Performance of standards common across academic disciplines, such as writing and speaking, are assessed by means of common scoring guides.

This ensures that there is a common understanding of the desired qualities of writing and speaking regardless of the academic discipline in which it takes place. This common understanding results in consistency in the instruction and assessment of these skills.

Croft Academy is unique: we design our curriculum concentrated on some end or singular purpose.

Clarity of Intent

The assessment of student performance is a crucial component of the curriculum. Scoring Guides or Rubrics de-mystify the expectations so that students understand what they are being asked to demonstrate and teachers have more accurate information to assess a student’s understanding.

Coherence of Intent

A unique and effective aspect of the new reporting process is that students’ grades are aligned to the concept of meeting, exceeding, partially meeting and not meeting standards. The numeric value of the grade corresponds directly to whether the student is performing at the level expressed by the standard.

Communication of Intent

With the detail provided in the new report card, parents and students can better understand the specific areas in which the student excels and those in which he or she requires more assistance. The report card, which now numbers seven pages, includes a paragraph from each teacher in each class as well as a grade on each of the standards which are being measured in the class as well as a summary grade.

Fairy Tales Do Come True

Charlotte Hersey Black ’60 of Nevada City, CA, wrote us the following: “Frank Dyer ’56 was the first boy I ever dated in Dover-Foxcroft. We went steady for awhile when I was 15, then we went our separate ways. Frank saw my address in the alumni newsletter and looked me up ten years ago just to say ‘hi’. We didn’t see each other again until he looked me up last spring. I had been divorced since I saw him last and his wife had died. We were surprised when the old feelings flooded back. We are so much alike in so many ways! We have found a complete happiness with each other and will be getting married this spring. The beautiful part of the story is that Frank’s brother will be getting married with us . . . a double wedding. Added to that news, he will be marrying one of my classmates Norma Llyford Chabot ’60. The coincidences beyond this are amazing but too many to mention. After 43 years we fell in love, proving that fairy tales do come true.” We in the Alumni Office congratulate them on their upcoming nuptials.

Fairy Tales Do Come True

Charlotte Hersey Black ’60 of Nevada City, CA, wrote us the following: “Frank Dyer ’56 was the first boy I ever dated in Dover-Foxcroft. We went steady for awhile when I was 15, then we went our separate ways. Frank saw my address in the alumni newsletter and looked me up ten years ago just to say ‘hi’. We didn’t see each other again until he looked me up last spring. I had been divorced since I saw him last and his wife had died. We were surprised when the old feelings flooded back. We are so much alike in so many ways! We have found a complete happiness with each other and will be getting married this spring. The beautiful part of the story is that Frank’s brother will be getting married with us . . . a double wedding. Added to that news, he will be marrying one of my classmates Norma Llyford Chabot ’60. The coincidences beyond this are amazing but too many to mention. After 43 years we fell in love, proving that fairy tales do come true.” We in the Alumni Office congratulate them on their upcoming nuptials.

Class of 1975 Holds 25th Reunion

Inclement weather didn’t dampen the spirit of members of the Class of 1975, as more than forty classmates, along with spouses and guests, gathered last July at the Piscataquis Valley Fairgrounds for our 25th reunion.

The hall was decorated with a spectacular display of tacky Hawaiian paraphernalia, thanks to the 17 classmates who showed up for the “deck the halls” party on Friday night.

Most party goers came from within the state, though some traveled from afar. Roger Hewett came from New Hampshire, Dave Ingraham from Massachusetts, Tim and Betty from New York, John Hathaway from Virginia, Pete Wentworth from South Carolina, Mary from Texas, and Gary all the way from Japan! It is heartwarming that they would travel so far to see each other, and heartbreaking that some of the locals won’t even come from across town.

Overall, the years have been kind to us. Some people never change. Jeff Dunn still looks the same, Tim King still acts the same, and everybody still “looks up” to Kevin Nelson! It was great to see everyone. We missed those of you who weren’t there, and hope you’ll make the next.

Respectfully submitted,
Julie, Sandy, and Tiff

Class of 1985 Holds Mini Reunion

At the Gerrish camp in Bowerbank, a class reunion of six was held last July. Beth Gerrish Renzetti, Suzann Magee, Mel Mountain Buzza, Steve Guilmet, Lisa Robinson Richardson and Paul Choiniere and their families attended. The weather wasn’t great but they had fun catching up and watching the kids play. For their 20th reunion, they would like to have a lobster feed at the Gerrish camp, coinciding with Alumni Weekend in August. Beth would like classmates to send any updated info to the Alumni Office.

40th Reunion Held for Class of ’60

The Class of 1960 met on Friday evening, August 4, at the home of Rick and Nancy Page to decorate a float for the Homecoming Parade. What a great “ice breaker” to start the weekend festivities! Saturday morning they gathered at FA to board their decorated float which was pulled by Richard Blethen driving his Dad’s old John Deere tractor. A luncheon and social was held in the afternoon for about 35 classmates at the camp of Gary and Peg Wakeland in Bowerbank on Sebec Lake. The evening was full of activities at the Academy with pictures, Alumni Banquet, meeting old friends, street dance, and fireworks. Sunday morning several of them were able to meet for breakfast at the Bear’s Den. Peg says it was wonderful seeing friends and rekindling old friendships!
